

ABSTRACT

A wrap-around carrier for carrying bottles, which extend through apertures in the upper sidewall with the apertures being spanned by bridges. The bridges between the rows of apertures may be locked or glued. This carrier may have a handle that extends above the tops of the bottles but which can be folded down between the tops of the bottles so that the carrier can be stacked one (1) on top of the other.

RIVERWOOD INTERNATIONAL CORPORATION
3350 RIVERWOOD PARKWAY SE, SUITE 1400
ATLANTA, GEORGIA 30339
(770) 644-3228